No Politics in It.

There is a coterie of Vermont politi cians who scent danger at a great distance and whenever a son of the Green

Mountain state gets a government appointment they have it announced that this simply a part of Senator Poctor's

St. Albans, Mrs. J. M. Comstock of Chelit is simply a part of Senator Poctor's plan to retain his seat in the Senate. For instance, the Montpelier correspondent of the Boston Herald has discovered that Mr. Titcomb's appointment to the Argentine Republic was secured by Senator Proctor and was intended to hold the support of the young men in state. Now it is interesting to know that the Vermont Senator first heard of the tender of the appointment from Mr. Titcomb himself. For many years Caledonia county has been worthily represented in that South American republic by having Walter Davis of Danville at the head of the meteorological bureau. For a long time Mr. Davis bas been trying to develop the fish and game interests of the country of his adoption, and after some correspondence with Mr. Titcomb and the Argentine minister at Washington the valuable services of Mr. Titcomb were secured. There was no politics in the appointment, and neither of our Vermont senators depend on the spoils sysconstituents.

Servian politics are both strenuous and dangerous. The King and Queen, the and everybody is satisfied. A good many morals might be drawn from the ble to a republic and all of us prefer a republic to a monarchy no matter how stable the latter may be.

Current Press Comment.

A political fight is on in Vermont to break the old mountain rule, by which it is agreed that governors shall be chosen in alternate years from the east and west side of the Green Mountains. It is simply the old question of the mountain coming to Mahomet. The chances are that Mahomet will go to the mountain-[Boston Advertiser.

The St. Albans Messenger thinks it might have been a good thing for the state to have made it an object for John W. Titcomb to remain here. No doubt, but it is not practice for Vermont to keep her great men. Some of them remain because they have private interests to keep them here. More of them go elsewhere to acquire fame and fortune and shed a lustre on the state of their adoption rather than on Vermont .- [Montpelier Argus.

World's W. C. T. U.

The sixth convention of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union opened at Geneva, Switzerland, June 8, under the presidency of Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., vice-president at-large in the absence of Lady Henry Somerset. One of the largest delegations was the American, numbering 60. The executive committee announced an important change in the constitution, whereby officers will be elected by the convention thus ending a dispute which lasted for years. Dr. Belden, pastor of the American church, in his welcoming address dwelt on the fact that the organization, now of such world wide importance, was started in America.

Gen. Alexander McDowell McCook, U. S. A., retired, died at Dayton, Obio, Friday. Gen. McCook was born in Columbia county, Onio, April 22, 1831. He was graduated from West Point July 1, 1852. He served with distinction in the Union army during the civil war, being successively promoted for meritorious services in the battle of Bull Run, Nashville, Shiloh, and Perryville, until be attained the rank of major-general of volunteers. At the close of the civil war he became a lieutenant-colonel in the regular service and was retired in 1895 as a major-general. He represented the United States at the coronation of the Czar of Russia in 1896, and was appointed by President McKinley in 1898 as a member of a commission to investigate the conduct of the war department during the war with Spain.

To be held at St. Johnsbury Next Year. The 108th annual meeting of the Conregational convention of Vermont and the 15th annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Union opened at Burington last week Tuesday. At the session of the Missionary Union the reports of the secretary, Mrs. C. L. Smith, the treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Thompson, and the committee on program by Mrs. W. J. Van Patten were all very satisfactory. The report of the young people's work was given by Mrs. Robert Mackinnon and showed gratifying activity along this line. In the afternoon a plan for the work for the ensuing year was presented by Mrs. W. P. Smith. The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. J. F. Smith of Orwell; president, Mrs. Rebecca P. Fairbanks of St. Johnsbury; vice-president, Mrs. Edward G. Osgood of Bellows Falls; general secretary, Mrs. Clarence L. Smith of Burlington; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John B. Stearns of Burlington; secretary of young people's work, Mrs. Robert Mackinnon of St. Johnsbury; treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Thompson of Brattleboro; assistant treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Ware of Wilmington; auditor, Rev. H. R. Miles of Bennington. The following were chosen as an executive committee: Mrs. Perry Bingham of Middlebury, Mrs. W. B. Sheldon of Bennington, Mrs. George sea, Mrs. E. F. Spaulding of Newport, Miss Eleanor L. Manley of Pittsford Mills, Mrs. W. N. Bryant of Waterbury, Mrs. E. F. Palmer, Jr., of Ludlow, Mrs. A. E. Park of Brattleboro and Mrs. Levi Wild of Royalton.

The Congregational convention opened in the afternoon, President C. H. Merrill presiding, and organization followed with the election of E. G. French of Johnson as scribe, Rev. Henry J. Kilbourn of Bradford, assistant, and Dea. C. W. Osgood of Burlingtor. as auditor. Rev. G. W. Hunt of Enosburgh presented the fraternal greetings of the Vermont conference of the Methodist church. The report of the Fairbanks board of education was given by Prof. Henry Fairbanks of St. Johnsbury. The convention sermon was delivered by Rev. E. M. Chapman of St. Johnsbury, from the text, "Sirs, What Must I Do to be Saved? And they said: Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and Thou Shalt be Saved.

The annual meeting of the Vermont Domestic Missionary Society was held Wednesday. The nominating committee reported through their chairman, Rev. E. M. ON BOARD THE "KAISER." The Southeast African Ports. (Correspondence of the Caledonian.) After an early start this morning in Zanzibar and a hurried visit to the shore for a basket of fruit and a present to mark our wedding day, we set sail at 8. 30 a. m. for Dar Es Salaam, where our boiler is to be repaired. I think in one letter I mentioned that our ship was very full of natives of many tribes. Some were taken by the "Kaiser" to be landed in Durban, Natal, but as a few cases of bubonic plague had occurred in that town the authorities refused to take any East Coast natives into port and these had to be brought back. In addition to these others had come on at Delagoa Bay, Beira, Chinde and Mozambique and 300 or 400 were huddled together on the hatch deck, and in the steerage. Probably 50 dialects were spoken and the curious crowd represented natives from many tribes of South, East and North Africa, as well as Chinese, Hindoos, Parsees, Zanzibaris, Arabs and Joanese. All these left at Zanzibar, and the decks were cleaned and cleared, and the hold and hatches were filled with thousands of bags made of straw matting and filled with cloves. Thousands of cocoa nuts and bags of copra (or cocoa nut meats) were also taken on as cargo. It was a relief for ears and nostrils to have a clear deck, for the din and noise of the natives had been terrible. We reached Dar Es Salaam about lunch time, sailing slowly and carefully among the coral islands and reefs, and found it a truly enchanting port, quite the most beautiful one on the East Coast. I cannot think of anything fairer and lovelier than the view that met our eyes. In Mozambique a few lofty palms wave over the town. At Zanzibar, the deep, rich tropical foliage is relieved by dozens of tufts of palms and these are seen as a background in groves and gardens. But at Dar Es Salaam they crown the hillsides in hundreds and form magnificent avenues as far as eye can reach. There is a profusion, a glory, a wealth of coco-palms here unlike anything I have known. This town is Africa, and has been laid out at great expense and with great care. Skill, method and science, good sanitary precautions, and all that modern means can procure indicate a faithful paternal care. There is a large and strongly built governor's residence, surrounded by a fine garden, and the public buildings are massive and well planned. From the sea the large hospital, with its turrets and balconics looks like a palace, and is very picturesque and well adapted to the hot place. It is located in a large garden near the governor's house, with finely appointed residences for the physicians near. We walked through the handsome, airy, tiled corridor, and saw many of the private rooms, but were taken only to the entrance of the fever ward, as many bad cases of malaria and black | Poultney water fever were reported. Each ward piring in 1906, P. H. Dale and Rev. C. has good American wire screens for years, and she has a staff of three day and three night nurses under ber, and every patient has an orderly (a native boy), to watch at his door and to be ready to call the nurse if needed. Great care has been taken to make this a model government hospital. The Botanical > and much cultivation of coffee, grains and fruits in the vicinity. The German portion of the town contains two long side streets, beautifully made and lined with wonderfully fine shade trees, of the ficus (or fig) and mimosa varieties. There are large native schools carried on both by German Protestants and Roman Catholics. The native quarters are wider and cleaner and show more industries than those at Zanzibar or Mozambique. Here fruits of all tropical varieties can be bought, and many native curios, leopard skins and trophies brought down from Central Africa. But have failed to tell you the most pleasng objects visible as soon as the ship reaches the entrance of the bay. These are two large, well constructed, very neat and substantial churches on the wide handsome street facing the bay and with fine squares in front. The more picturesque one to the east, with the red iled roof, and the quaint tower is the Lutheran church. It is substantially and elegantly furnished with oaken seats, a fine organ, a richly carved oak pulpit and is a model of neatness and comfort. Next to it, and surrounded by a pretty garden, is the German pastor's handsome and cosy house-made to suit the climate in every way-and looking so inviting that we took the liberty of calling and were much grieved to hear that he was absent. Nearby was another house, the architecture of which seemed to me absolutely perfect for these hot coast ports. Nearer the landing station, on a high and commanding situation, stands the very large new Roman Catholic church which has been eight years in building and which is not yet completed. The window over the high alter was being put in and very neatly and carefully the workmen were proceeding, with none of the litter and debris which marks the usual British workman. This church. also, was exquisitely neat, with a handsome portal, lofty arches and extensive grounds. The hospitable corridor-and these churches seemed especially cool and restful after the outdoor heat-and we were reluctant to come out into the burning sun, although all the steets are shaded by young and thrifty trees. There are two pedestals and busts that attract attention. One of the old Kaiser,

In the cool of the late afternoon we saw mothers and children out taking an airing and had one glimpse of a cosy afternoon tea table among feros and plants in a balcony that made us rather home-sick and envious. Hot, footsore and very much sunburnt and freckled we came back to our ship, having enjoyed the pretty city, but having also decided that the heat was the most trying we had experienced on the southeast African coast. Danger Signal.

Everyone knows that a cough is the danger signal of consumption, and yet some will go carelessly on in the dangerous way, although the signal bell is continually sounding the alarm.

Downs' Elixir is the safe and only refuge when a cough has become at all severe. Downs' Elixir will cure any cough, cold or throat trouble, and even consumption has many times been cured by its timely use. Do not neglect a cough, and especially at this season of the year. Get Downs' Elixir at any drug store.
